recent work for an easier, cleaner viewing experience. The easiest way to do this is to select all the images and then click on the cogwheel icon in the upper left corner of the Editor window (next to where the full-screen, 4K display shows up). To get started, open Photoshop Elements or update it via the new "Get Updates and Support" feature within the software. This will ensure you have the newest version of Photoshop and that there are no unwanted features in the product. You can also connect your computer to a printer. This will make it much easier to change your settings whenever you wish. Connecting your computer to the printer via USB makes it even easier. You will now be able to select your printer from the Print dialog (choose Print Document from the options listed on the left). You can use optical flow to detect your location for a number of creative uses. It is available in Photoshop Elements, Google Photos, and Microsoft Photos. Kobe Bryant's eight-year, $48 million extension with the Los Angeles Lakers inked in the summer of 2013 caught a lot of by surprise. ESPN NBA reporter Adrian Wojnarowski reports that Bryant may have actually been committing to staying in Los Angeles in the middle of the summer, where some of the Lakers' most pressing needs — including a big man to be the face of the franchise — would have been addressed. As it stands, the Lakers have been an improved team and Bryant has managed to keep his numbers relatively in check. That's not to say that he's had to change his game — he still has the same dogged resolve that's allowed him to play through whatever has befallen his body throughout his career. But in a season where the Lakers' roster has been relatively well-stocked, Bryant would likely have been looking for more than a bit of security. And while joining a team with the resources and big name talent to give him everything he needs to thrive may have added peace of mind for Bryant, the Lakers may have had to temper expectations. There's a possibility Bryant could have been putting up back-to-back numbers of 30-plus points as a means to coax the Lakers into wanting to keep him. After missing 25 games because of knee surgery and needing a remaining 12 months in his contract to be guaranteed, Bryant and the Lakers' front office agreed on a plan to fill the future of the franchise's biggest star. Though no extension was put in place, there was always an agreement between Bryant and the Lakers. The decision just wasn't made official until he later inked a one-year deal for more than $24 million to play alongside LeBron James, Chris Bosh and Dwyane Wade. With that hurdle behind him, Bryant will likely need to improve upon the numbers he put up in his final season in L.A. if he wants to match his career-high tally of 5,643 points. The Lakers are in the midst of a playoff drought and Bryant will only be 32 by the time the playoffs come around. With the same smile and determination as always, Bryant can be a deadly weapon.Q: Perl regex - delete the last 2 characters if last character is '-' or '|' I want to delete the last 2 characters if last character is '|' or '-'.
