I use this word a lot, and it fits for this occasion: i•,noun 1. A typical or standard item or process (as of an entrepreneur, a life, or an art) 2. A goal of specific importance 3. A model or template 2 Something that is a common thread or feature. I can think of a few possibilities for the second verb. And I'm almost certain that the third is wrong. But I can't be certain. Can you clear this up? A: The right answer is: Multiple choice question: (a) match (b) have (c) adopt (d) pay (e) require can you please forward a copy of the document to me.
