I've been writing a lot of procedures you create instead of using functions) and I've noticed that it seems like the self procedure is always slower than the regular ones. I know that it's not true of all self procedures, but for the ones I've tried it is the case. Here's an example: Type 1 Example: Create Procedure Proc_Test1(@x int) as Select @x as int go Type 2 Example: Create Procedure Proc_Test2(@x int) as Select @x as int go (I did try this, and proc_Test2 is, as expected, slower. Also, I noticed that the result is the same as if I coded

There are other files here: Error 53.log logfile.txt Recovery.log What could possibly be happening? A: I was able to fix the issue. Open your system32 folder in explorer (either by opening the command prompt and entering cd system32). Open regedit.exe using the file manager. Open "HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE\SYSTEM\CurrentControlSet\Control\Session Manager\Restore" Find the sub key "RestoreOnlyRootFolders". If it is not there, create it. Under the "RestoreOnlyRootFolders" key, create a DWORD named "AlwaysRestore" and set it to 1. In a radio communication system, base stations (BS) provide coverage for respective cells, which are a predetermined communication area, and establish communication system standards are established, and the 3GPP has been studied various wireless communication systems have been developed to provide wireless voice service, while keeping user mobility. However, the mobile communication systems have been expanded to the level of providing high speed data service, broadcast services, and the like so as to achieve a high speed data rate of about a natimum of 100 Mbps, and a 1× Real Time Division Multiplexing (RTDM) rate of about 40 Mbps. Recently, an LTE-Advanced (LTE-A) system for implementing communication systems. To this end, a working group (WG) for the LTE-A system has defined detailed standards for the present LTE-A system. The details are presented in the non-patent document 1. Meanwhile, mobile communication systems are evolving to implementing a high speed and high quality services. But since wireless channels experience faing, the robile communication systems take limitations in satisfactory performance due to the fading, and thus there is a need for a system capable of overcoming the fading.
