“HyperMotion Technology allows us to accurately reproduce the movement of all 22 real-life players on the pitch,” said David Rutter, senior game director at EA SPORTS. “We’ve captured the movement of these players to accurately model their movement during a game, and to work the algorithms back into the game, making the players move and react like they do on the pitch. The player movements are made to feel real by replicating the movement and speed of every player, including the unique characteristics of each player, like size, fitness levels and speed.” Combining the real-life movements of those who compete in the NFL, Premier League, Serie A, La Liga, Bundesliga, MLS, Copa Libertadores and MLS with FIFA gameplay has given the opportunity for EA SPORTS to create a number of unique and dynamic new features in FIFA 22.

New Dynamic AI Technology The new AI systems are designed to be smarter and quicker than ever before. Players can experience the most natural-feeling AI interactions that provide realistic reactions to contact, ball possession, off-ball movement, off-ball runs, and more. The unique agility system allows players to use more nuanced movement to play better-paced, open-field soccer.

HyperReactive Defenders The creators of FIFA have taken a different approach to defending with new dynamic defensive AI. Defending more aggressively on the ball has encouraged defenders to better help out in interceptions, and they will also hold up the ball longer against a slower striker. Defenders will block shots better, and if they get stuck in tackles, their ability to retreat and run out of trouble will allow them to improve their positioning on the pitch.

Precision Ball Physics The revised ball physics system will reward players for their skill and dribbling with more varied and realistic ball behavior. Players can now use greater precision in their touches, as well as make more advanced cuts and jinks. This includes better responsive behavior and feedback in dribbling, making for more responsive play and a high-octane, high-skill experience.

Better Movement A number of new features have been added to improve player movement on the ball and out of the way of opponents. Players can better slide tackles, shield the ball, cut out passes and even collect the ball in space. Maneuvering out of the way of oncoming players is now more responsive, and players can make better runs

Fifa 22 Features Key:

- Top stars: More clubs, more big-name players and a whole host of updated real-life transfers. Enjoy the ultimate footballing experience in FIFA 22.
- Multiplayer: Use leading-edge console technology to play against your friends and download your favourite player’s stats and create your dream team for any team you like.
- Shot Impact: Every shot, pass and header has a devastating new effect in FIFA 22. The Pro Gameplay Engine now uses data from millions of FIFA 22 players to offer 11 new Power-Up Tackles, only from the highest-rated tackles on the move.
- Goal celebration: The new goal-based celebrations bring you seven more ways to celebrate scoring your first ever goal – many of them exclusively in FIFA 22.

The goal impact will vary each match based on your performance, and you can unlock iconic goal celebrations such as the "Interior classic de Patrick van Amsberg" if you score an amazing goal.

- Better ball control: FIFA 22's Ball Physics returns for a game that feels more weighty than ever, and defenders will fight even more dirty for the ball.
- No Man's Sky + Re-imagined Commentary: We've teamed up with No Man's Sky's developer, Hello Games, to deliver a much more immersive commentary option.
- Freeze-Frame Goalkeeping: Whether you are playing a big-name club or an amateur team, showing the opposition what you can see is as big a part of the game as scoring. In FIFA 22, if you see the keeper come out to save, your player will instantly switch to defensive mode and your cross will automatically go out for a goal kick.
- One Touch Control: One of the first games to challenge it, gameplay director Alex Hunter has perfected the potential of its new controller-based touch controls. This new touch system puts "playback" right in the palm of your hands, with one simple button to control simple controls and with an onscreen control pad that makes control of 3 and 4-star players much easier than ever before.
