The way around downloading a ton of other stuff that you don't need is to just buy the game. This is where things get a little tricky. In order for you to buy a game, you have to have a credit card of some sort. Most stores will have a link on their website where you can go to check out with your card, which is handy if you are new to buying games online. I would recommend just looking at the game pricing before purchasing though, if you are not sure, ask someone for help. A great thing about buying games online is that you don't have to wait around to even play the game, just go ahead and buy it and you will be able to play it right away. You may even be able to download the game and play it right away. You may see something in the news today that will be the next big thing, you may think that you will just put it on the back burner and wait to see what people think of it, then pop a big wad of cash in their website. Many people do this and it is easy to get discouraged if it isn't what you were looking for.
